DEAN ED TAYLOR

DEAR NEW HUSKIES,

Welcome to the University of Washington! When you chose to come to the UW, you chose to walk on the path of knowledge and understanding; to build bridges across difference; to actively pursue facts and information. UW students, faculty and staff take the road of service and leadership — together. We are glad you're bringing your unique perspectives and contributions to our collective Husky experience. In your time here I hope that you reach out, connect and discover more about the UW, who you are and what matters most to you. Know that your Husky family is proud of you and is here for you.

ED TAYLOR

Vice Provost and Dean, Undergraduate Academic Affairs
Professor of Educational Leadership and Policy Studies

NSTP TEAM

WELCOME FROM NEW STUDENT & TRANSFER PROGRAMS (NSTP)

You are now officially part of our Husky community! We hope you find this guide helpful as you prepare to join us on campus. Our programs provide opportunities to deepen your knowledge of the University of Washington as you navigate through your first year at the UW. We are looking forward to learning with you and ensuring that you have a smooth transition. Visit us in Mary Gates Hall 120 or the Commuter & Transfer Commons (HUB 141) before the quarter begins. Go Dawgs!

USING THIS GUIDE AND YOUR NEW HUSKY CHECKLIST

Getting started at the UW doesn't come with an instruction manual, but the Husky Guide comes pretty close. As you read this guide, you will see that its content aligns with the items on your New Husky Checklist. Completing this "to-do list" as you go through the guide will help ensure an easy transition into your first year.

To view an electronic version of this guide, visit nstp.uw.edu/huskyguide.

HUSKY FOUNDATIONS

Husky Foundations is a self-paced online course. It is one of the required items on your New Husky Checklist.

Many of the topics in the Husky Foundations course build on the content in this guide and provide more details about what you need to know, do and expect in your first year.

ONLINE RESOURCES

Even before you arrive on campus, gain valuable information about academics at the UW with our online and video resources at nstp.uw.edu/orientation-resources.

WELCOME TO THE UW

The University of Washington expects you to be informed of the Student Conduct Code and be a responsible member of our community. Use these topics to ask questions about what it means to be a UW student. nstp.uw.edu/expectations

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY

We expect you to practice high standards of academic and professional honesty and integrity as defined in Student Conduct Code WAC 478-121-107. In doing so, you will be part of a vibrant intellectual community striving for academic excellence. Huskies have integrity.

- What does it mean to have integrity as a first-year or transfer student at the UW?

ACADEMIC ENGAGEMENT

To be successful, instructors expect you to commit yourself to being present and engaged both in the classroom and with outside studies, assignments and activities. There are an incredible number of staff and resources available to support your journey, and we expect you as a student to ask for help when you need it.

- How do you define being present and engaged in your classroom?

COMMUNITY AND COMPASSION

You are joining a community with a long-standing and growing commitment to equity, inclusion and diversity. We expect you to be aware of your own biases and seek to understand the perspectives of others. You will experience many ways to make connections and build your own community and support network, both in person and online.

- How will you engage in fostering community for yourself?

CO-CURRICULAR INVOLVEMENT

Your academics are an important part of your time at the UW, but they are only one part of the picture. We expect you to engage in co-curricular involvement, which can include part-time jobs, internships, community-service opportunities, tutoring students, getting involved with research and more.

- What is one area you want to explore in your first quarter at the UW?
- How will you engage in outside studies, assignments and activities?

ETHICAL CONDUCT

You will find yourself in unique situations that require you to act ethically and with the utmost integrity. We expect that you hold not only yourself, but also your peers, to the highest standards of ethical conduct and consider a variety of perspectives when making decisions.

- Who can you go to for support and advice when faced with a dilemma?

DID YOU KNOW?

Before you arrive on campus, you are expected to read the Student Conduct Code.

FIRST GENERATION AT THE UW

Are you the first one in your family to go to college? Here are a few resources to explore as you begin your journey:

- 1. Opt-in list: First-year and transfer students can opt-in to stay informed about first-gen specific events and resources in emails and newsletters. Sign up to receive these communications through the New Husky Checklist. nstp.uw.edu/firstgen
- 2. Advising guide: Review the advising guide to help you navigate the beginning of your time here at the UW, and explore resources and communities that can help you get involved on campus. advising.uw.edu/guides/first-generation
- 3. Career and skill-building resources: Explore resources at the Career & Internship Center to help you find employment, build your skills, and attend events. careers.uw.edu/channels/first-generation-students
- 4. Office of Minority Affairs & Diversity (OMA&D) Academic Counseling Services: OMA&D Academic Counseling Services (ACS) provides advising, mentoring opportunities and scholarships and financial aid counseling for first-generation students. depts.washington.edu/omadcs
- 5. National First-Gen Celebration Day: Mark your calendar for November 8 to celebrate your amazing accomplishment of going to college as a first-generation student! Be on the lookout for more information in your email about events and activities. uw.edu/diversity/national-first-gen-day

ACADEMIC RESOURCES

FINDING ACADEMIC SUPPORT

Academic success includes reaching out for support early in your first year. Below are common support areas most UW students connect with early on. academicsupport.uw.edu

ACADEMIC COACHING

Meet with peer academic success coaches who provide support to develop study strategies and work with you to create a personalized plan for your academic goals.

TUTORING

The Center for Learning and Undergraduate Enrichment (CLUE) provides drop-in tutoring and exam reviews for specific subjects facilitated by peer tutors. Connect with peers in these programs and ask questions in a supportive environment.

WRITING CENTERS

Receive individual support at any stage of the writing process, including technical and career writing. Peer writing and research tutors are available at the Odegaard Writing & Research Center.

STUDY CENTERS

Visit a study center for specific subject area support from teaching assistants, departmental advisers, and peers. Explore all the study centers on campus: nstp.uw.edu/hgcenters

MAINTAINING ACADEMIC INTEGRITY

COMMUNITY STANDARDS + STUDENT CONDUCT

- Take pride in doing your own work. You worked hard to be here, and we believe in you and your capability to be academically successful.
- Make a plan that allows ample time for all your assignments, studying and exams. This helps ensure that the pressure of deadlines does not lead you to engage in cheating.
- Check your syllabus for specifics on what your instructor expects of you. There may be expectations that one class has and another does not.
- Learn how to be a successful Husky and make a positive impact at the UW by reviewing the Student Conduct Code. nstp.uw.edu/hgcodeofconduct

The New Student Checklist outlines to-do items related to topics here, such as:

- Complete the UW Libraries Activity to learn about library spaces and resources
- Create a plan to build your college study skills
- Know the tutoring spaces on campus
- Learn about textbooks at the UW Libraries
- Review the Office of Undergraduate Research resources
- Read the UW-IT Quick Start Guide and access free software

Artificial intelligence (AI), such as ChatGPT, can offer opportunities for learning. However, its use could also constitute misconduct. Check with your professor about appropriate AI use.

CONNECT WITH ACADEMIC ADVISING

As you prepare to meet advisers and register for classes at your Advising & Orientation session, consider the following:

FIRST-YEAR STUDENTS

- Learn about General Education and why it is important. nstp.uw.edu/hggened
- Ask yourself: How can I be intentional and flexible about my course choices?
- Ask yourself: How can I use my first quarter courses to explore my interests both inside and outside the classroom?
- Practice using course registration and planning tools such as MyUW, Register.UW and DARS.
- Learn how to identify prerequisite coursework for majors. nstp.uw.edu/hgchooseamajor
- Review student evaluations in the course evaluation catalog. uw.edu/cec
- Be strategic about planning your course schedule; discover interesting courses and majors. dawgpath.uw.edu
- Looking for more guidance? Check out the first-year advising guide for tips on how to navigate your first year. advising.uw.edu/guides/first-year

TRANSFER STUDENTS

- Learn the requirements for your intended major(s) and understand the department application/declaration process.
- Check your unofficial transcript on MyUW to see if all your credits have transferred from your previous institution.
- To understand how the credits from your previous institution apply toward your UW degree, run a degree audit (DARS) on MyPlan. uw.edu/students/reg/dars
- Ask your academic adviser how the Satisfactory Progress Policy will impact your timeline. nstp.uw.edu/hgsatprog
- Plan for first quarter registration: Ensure you have a balanced schedule and register for the courses you need.
 - Course 1: _____
 - Course 2: _____
 - Course 3: _____
 - Course 4: _____
- Looking for more guidance? Check out the transfer student advising guide for tips on how to navigate your first year at the UW. advising.uw.edu/guides/transfer

ACCESSING YOUR STUDENT RECORDS

FAMILY EDUCATIONAL RIGHTS AND PRIVACY ACT

FERPA is a federal law that governs the use of student educational records. Students have full access to their academic records by logging into their MyUW account, but access is limited or restricted to others, including parents and family members. registrar.washington.edu/students/ferpa

The following offices have individual processes to authorize users to view student information:

- Financial information (students must log in with their UW NetID): nstp.uw.edu/hgrelease
- Housing: nstp.uw.edu/hgreleasehfs
- Medical: nstp.uw.edu/hgreleasemed

DISABILITY RESOURCES

DISABILITY RESOURCES FOR STUDENTS (DRS)

BRINGING CREDIT INTO THE UW

Generally, college-level credit brought into the UW will contribute to the 180 credits required for graduation. The following tools and information will help you understand how your credit will count toward your degree.

Learn more about the University of Washington Equivalency Guide: admit.washington.edu/apply/transfer/equivalency-guide
Learn more about transfer credit policies: admit.washington.edu/apply/transfer/policies

DID YOU KNOW?

A student's class standing is determined by the total number of credits earned, not by the number of years of college attendance or by the completion of an associate's degree.

FIRST-YEAR = 0-44 CREDITS

SECOND-YEAR = 45-89 CREDITS

THIRD-YEAR = 90-134 CREDITS

FOURTH-YEAR AND BEYOND = 135+ CREDITS

INTERPRETING COURSE EQUIVALENCIES

SPECIFIC EQUIVALENCY

Many transfer courses are listed with a specific UW course equivalency and are found at the top of your unofficial UW transcript.

EXAMPLE BIO A 201 (5)

This community college course is offered for five credits and is designated as equivalent to a specific UW course, BIO A 201, which is also offered for five credits. The course meets the Natural Sciences (NSc) component of UW graduation requirements.

NOT A SPECIFIC EQUIVALENCY

A 1XX or 2XX instead of a course number indicates that the course credit transfers but is not equivalent to a specific course at the UW. 1XX indicates transfer courses offered at the 100 level; 2XX indicates courses offered at the 200 level.

EXAMPLE UW 1XX

The course is considered an interdepartmental course as the UW does not have an equivalent department. The course is assigned the generic UW 1XX equivalency and may be used toward general graduation requirements as appropriate.

EXAMPLE BIOL 2XX

Content is not equivalent to a specific UW course but does generally correspond to a specific UW program. In this case, the Biology program accepts the course for credit.

COURSES TAKEN AS PART OF A SEQUENCE

In some cases, you must complete an entire sequence of courses at your transfer institution to be awarded specific UW course equivalencies. If only one or two courses are completed, then the credit is usually awarded as departmental 1XX or 2XX.

EXAMPLE CHEM 152,162 (5,6) if both courses taken; otherwise, CHEM 1XX

In this example, both chemistry courses must be completed to earn the UW equivalencies; if only one course is completed, then the credit is usually awarded as departmental 1XX or 2XX.

ARE YOU MISSING CREDITS?

If you have college credit that you don't see on your unofficial transcript in your MyUW portal, please review the following steps:

ACADEMIC TECHNOLOGY

ESSENTIAL SITES

my.uw.edu MyUW is the front portal of University of Washington for anybody with a UW NetID. Access the web resources you need to fulfill your goals at the University.

register.uw.edu Register.UW helps you create an academic plan for next quarter, next year, or all the way to graduation; audit your progress; discover which courses you may need to complete your degree; and share plans with your adviser.

dawgpath.uw.edu DawgPath is a web application that can help you manage your course load, discover interesting courses and majors and connect with your adviser.

it.uw.edu Your comprehensive portal for IT tools, software, services and resources to support your success at the UW.

washington.edu/calendar The UW Event Calendar shows listings for events, performances, lectures, exhibits and more on all three campuses.

notify.uw.edu Notify.UW sends notifications about course availability. Subscribe to courses you are interested in and choose to be notified via email and/or SMS text message when a seat opens up.

LEARNING TOOLS

canvas.uw.edu Canvas is the official learning-management system of the UW and is used in many UW courses.

uw.hosted.panopto.com Panopto is the UW-IT-supported lecture-capture solution, allowing for easy recording and viewing of videos from courses, lectures and presentations.

stlp.uw.edu The Student Technology Loan Program allows you to borrow laptops, tablets, audiovisual tools and accessories for free.

GET CONNECTED

nstp.uw.edu/hggetconnected Wireless internet access is available throughout most buildings on campus and some outdoor areas around campus. Wired internet access is available in all residence rooms, and Husky OnNet provides a secure temporary connection to the UW network from off campus.

itconnect.uw.edu/uware Download essential software from UW-IT's software catalog and discover online productivity tools available to empower your academic career.

itconnect.uw.edu/email You have two basic options for email: Forward UW email to a personal email inbox, or use an email service offered through the UW, either UW Gmail or UW Exchange Online.

COMMONLY ASKED QUESTIONS ABOUT FINANCIAL AID

Should I apply for financial aid?

Yes, if you think you need help paying for college, we strongly encourage you to apply. There is no "income cutoff" or other simple method of determining whether you will qualify for need-based financial aid. In general terms, "financial need" is defined as the difference between what it costs you to attend school and what you and your family can afford to pay.

What are the various types of financial aid?

There are three main types of financial aid based on your eligibility: grants/scholarships, which are considered "gift aid" and do not have to be repaid; work study, which allows you to work part-time on or off campus; and loans, which you borrow now and repay after graduating or dropping below half-time enrollment.

What costs can I use financial aid for during my enrollment at the UW?

You can use financial aid to cover expenses that are related to your education, such as tuition and fees, books/supplies, living expenses (on and off campus), transportation and other personal expenses you may incur.

How much will I need to borrow?

That depends on how long it takes to complete your degree, your eligibility for other aid besides loans and your personal spending habits. In 2024-25, 27% of UW undergraduates had debt at graduation. These students graduated with an average cumulative loan debt of $21,207. This is below the national average of $28,000 borrowed at public universities.

Why do I need loans? Can't I just use other forms of aid?

Of course, loans should be your last resort for paying for school. However, we do not have enough funds to award grants to all Huskies, so we end up awarding some loans to help you meet your financial need. We encourage students to fully utilize grants, scholarships and employment wages before considering loans. However, if you do need to fill a financial gap, you can decide how much or how little you want to borrow in loans. You can always repay your loans early, too, without penalty.

Who can I talk to about my financial aid options?

There are multiple ways you can connect with a Student Financial Aid Counselor: Call 206-543-6101 during our phone service hours, email us at osfa@uw.edu, or visit finaid.uw.edu.

CAMPUS LIFE AND ENGAGEMENT

COMMUTE OPTIONS

For 30 years, the U-PASS has made the University of Washington more accessible by providing affordable transit choices to UW students and staff.

A week before the quarter starts, your U-PASS will be activated and ready for use on your Husky Card. You will be able to access bus and transit options through King County Metro, Community Transit, Pierce Transit, Kitsap Transit, Everett Transit and Sound Transit, including the Link light rail and Sounder commuter trains. Find more information at transportation.uw.edu.

DID YOU KNOW?

More than 80% of commute trips to campus are made without a personal vehicle.

The New Husky Checklist outlines to-do items related to topics here, such as:

- Review the Husky Experience toolkit
- Make a plan to visit the Commuter & Transfer Commons, located in HUB 141. Explore the day-use lockers, kitchenette and lounge space
- Plan your commute to campus and don't forget to tap your U-PASS
- Purchase Dawg Pack tickets for UW football and basketball games
- Learn about opportunities to get involved in the Associated Students of UW (ASUW)
- Learn more about campus community spaces

Q CENTER: LGBTQ+ RESOURCES

The Q Center has proudly served LGBTQ+ students, staff and faculty on the UW Seattle campus for over 20 years. The Q Center works to foster a brave, affirming and inclusive community that celebrates all gender and sexual identities.

Through programs, resources and support, the Q Center empowers students and staff to thrive — personally, socially and academically.

Guided by values of justice, respect and liberation, the Q Center is a space where people can find connection and the freedom to be their authentic selves.

The Q Center is located in the Husky Union Building, on the third floor across from the elevator (HUB 315). Learn more about the Q Center at sites.uw.edu/qcenter.

FRATERNITY & SORORITY LIFE

Membership in a fraternity/sorority provides more than you might think — the decision to join can impact all facets of your collegiate experience. The UW's Greek community comprises 55 chapters with over 4,000 active members in four councils: Interfraternity Council, Multicultural Greek Council, National Pan-Hellenic Council and the Panhellenic Association.

See your New Husky Checklist to learn more about the membership experience and joining process and connect with current students during A&O. washington.edu/ofsl

JOIN A NEW HUSKY COMMUNITY

There are several ways to get connected to campus while taking classes and beginning your first quarter. As a new Husky, consider focusing on the areas below, and learn more at nstp.uw.edu/connect-through-academics.

by taking classes and attending events based on your interests.

through a Registered Student Organization (RSO).

through a First-year Interest Group (FIG), transfer seminar (GEN ST 205) or New Husky Networks.

REGISTERED STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS (RSO)

RSO stands for Registered Student Organization. RSOs are independent student-run clubs that register annually with the Student Activities Office. The UW Seattle has over 1,000 RSOs each year, including academic, performing arts, gaming, sports and recreation, multicultural, international, honors and special interest groups.

Students can search for RSOs in HuskyLink at huskylink.washington.edu, the UW's official RSO directory. New students can also explore RSOs at the fall and winter Student Activities Fairs. Learn more at hub.washington.edu/get-involved/rso.

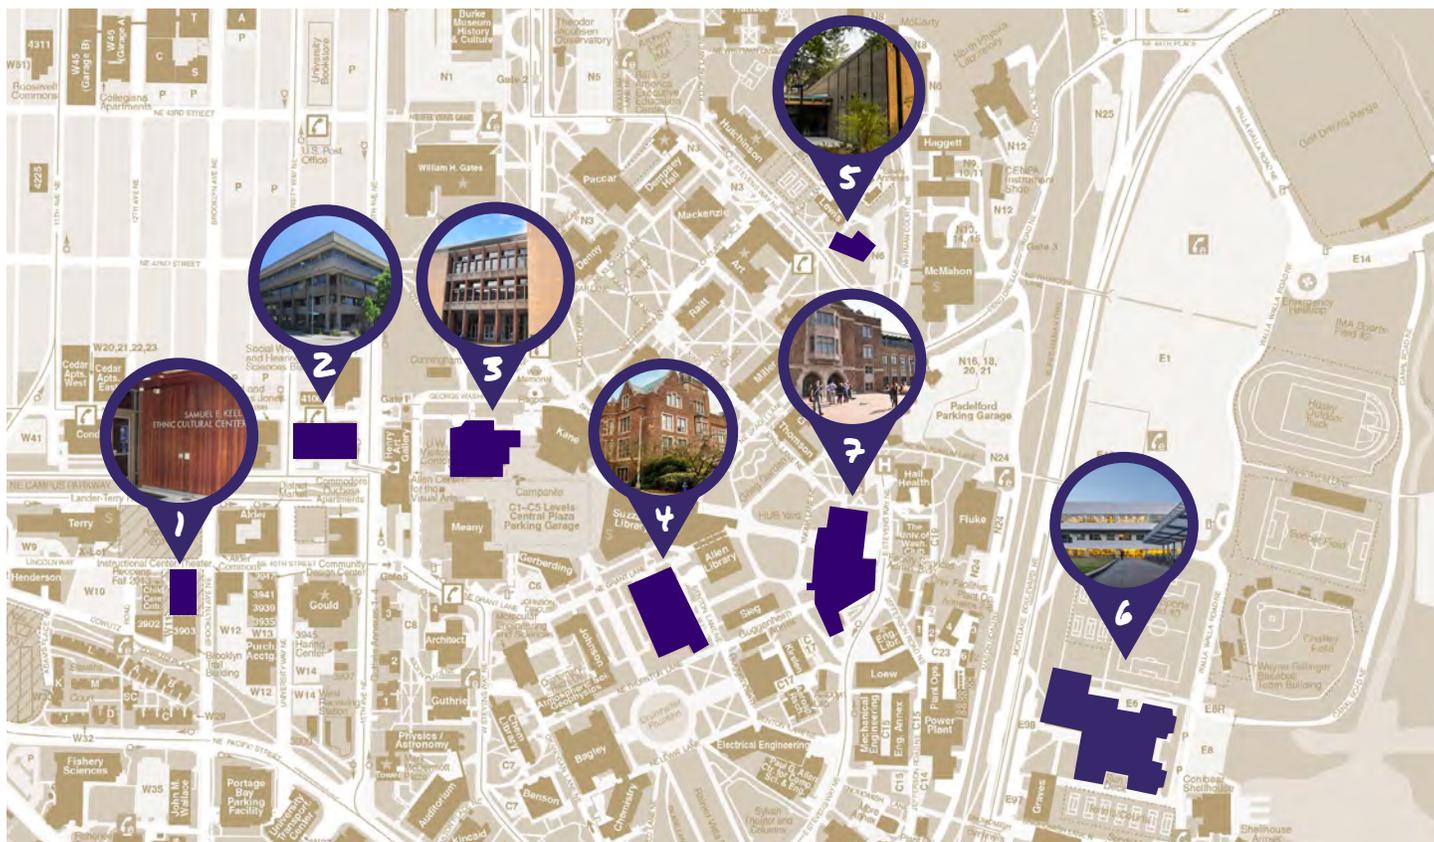

CREATE YOUR COMMUNITY

Do you have a passion or identity but are having trouble finding a community that reflects it? You can create your own community by registering a Student Organization, getting involved in Student Government, or developing a connection with an SAO Adviser. hub.washington.edu/get-involved/sao

SEVEN WAYS TO FIND YOUR PLACE

The UW has several physical spaces that you should know as a student. Plan to visit these spaces when you come to campus to find your place and thrive in your first year at the UW.

1. SAMUEL E. KELLY ETHNIC CULTURAL CENTER

Attend cultural events to engage with our community and enhance your leadership skills. Visit the wellness room, serenity space, social justice library and Leadership Without Borders. depts.uw.edu/ecc

2. SCHMITZ HALL

Get answers about your tuition and financial aid questions, explore study abroad, or make a counseling appointment with a therapist. Get advice from International Student Services (ISS) and chat with the Center for International Relations & Cultural Leadership Exchange (CIRCLE).

3. ODEGAARD LIBRARY

Get writing and research help, reserve study rooms, check out course textbooks and use the computer labs! Odegaard also houses a sound studio, wellness room, the undergraduate book collection, and is open the longest hours of any library on campus. lib.uw.edu/ougl

4. MARY GATES HALL

Explore the following offices to succeed in your first year:

- Academic Counseling Services within the Office of Minority Affairs & Diversity (OMA&D) u.washington.edu/omad
- Academic Support Programs (CLUE tutoring and academic success coaching) academicsupport.washington.edu
- Career & Internship Center careers.uw.edu
- Center for Experiential Learning and Diversity expd.uw.edu
- Community Engagement & Leadership Education (CELE) Center cele.uw.edu
- New Student & Transfer Programs nstp.uw.edu
- Office of Undergraduate Research u.washington.edu/undergradresearch
- UAA Advising advising.uw.edu
UW Transfer Center is located in the UAA Advising suite (MHG 141)

5. wæłəbʔaltxʷ INTELLECTUAL HOUSE

A gathering space for American Indian/Alaska Native students, faculty and staff, as well as others from various cultures and communities, to come together in a welcoming environment to share knowledge. Visit the Intellectual House to find academic and cultural student programming. u.washington.edu/omad/intellectual-house

6. UW RECREATION

Stay active at the Intramural Activities Building (IMA). Rock climb at Craggs; rent equipment from the Gear Garage; swim at the 14-lane pool; explore with UWild Adventures; visit the Golf Range, Waterfront Activities Center and Massage Clinic; learn sports skills and martial arts; and participate in intramural sports, sports clubs, personal training, and fitness and mindfulness classes. u.washington.edu/ima

7. HUSKY UNION BUILDING (HUB)

Get involved with ASUW or an RSO. Find cultural/identity spaces like the Q Center (page 14), D Center (page 7), Student Veteran Life (depts.washington.edu/vetlife) and CTC (nstp.uw.edu/ctc). Play a variety of games and discover the bike shop, banking and ATMs, the Husky Den Food Court and University Book Store. @hubatuw

HEALTH AND WELL-BEING

The New Husky Checklist outlines to-do items related to topics here, such as:

- Understand your insurance and accessing healthcare affordably
- Review the Husky Experience toolkit
- Explore self-help resources for mental health

HUSKY HEALTH CENTER

The Husky Health Center (HHC) is your home for all your general health needs while you are a student at the UW. Treating everything from sore throats to sports injuries, it is your convenient and centrally located resource for primary care, sports medicine, physical therapy, free nurse advice, OB/GYN care, immunizations, travel medicine, lab work, X-rays and much more.

As a member of the renowned UW Medicine system, the clinic offers diverse care options and is a fantastic resource for students as they transition to oversee their own medical care. HHC highly recommends that all students set up an account on MyChart before beginning their first quarter so that they can access resources as soon as they arrive.

Huskies also love to take advantage of bargain prices at Rubenstein Pharmacy and a variety of safer-sex supplies like free condoms and lube, supplied by Husky Health. Be sure to ask about all the health benefits you receive at HHC as a fee-paying student at the UW!

COUNSELING CENTER

The UW Counseling Center offers multiple options for students seeking help coping with stress and mental health concerns. These include individual counseling, group counseling, workshops and several other programs. Students who are currently enrolled in degree-seeking programs at the Seattle campus are eligible for our Counseling Center services.

Visit mentalhealth.uw.edu for more details.

SAFECAMPUS

SafeCampus' mission is to foster a safe and supportive UW community. Call SafeCampus, no matter where you work or study, to anonymously discuss safety and well-being concerns for yourself or others. We'll listen to your concerns to provide guidance, tailored safety plans and resources. Often students call regarding stalking, sexual assault, suicide concerns, violence concerns and other types of bullying/harassment. uw.edu/safecampus

LIVEWELL

UW LiveWell: Health Promotion and Prevention works with students to develop the knowledge and skills to make informed decisions about their health and well-being. LiveWell's free services include alcohol and other drug education and consultations, recovery support, basic needs navigation support, suicide intervention, sexual assault and relationship violence confidential support, peer health education workshops and programs, and one-on-one Peer Wellness Coaching appointments. To learn more and schedule an appointment, visit the LiveWell website. wellbeing.uw.edu/livewell

Peer Wellness Coaching

This wheel highlights the interconnected nature of our well-being, teaching us the importance of developing lifelong skills to manage difficult situations, build resiliency and thrive. If you are looking to improve your knowledge about an aspect of your well-being, meet with a Peer Wellness Coach for 1-1 support! Peer Wellness Coaching is free, easily accessible and has same-week availability. wellbeing.uw.edu/livewell/services/pwc

LiveWell Confidential Advocates

For students impacted by sexual assault, relationship violence or stalking, the best way to protect your confidentiality and get access to help and support is to connect with a LiveWell Confidential Advocate. LiveWell's Confidential Advocates offer support by providing information on available resources, reporting options, and trauma-informed medical and mental health care. To learn more or to schedule an appointment, please visit the LiveWell website. wellbeing.uw.edu/confidential-advocacy

CIVIL RIGHTS & TITLE IX

University of Washington policies, in compliance with federal and Washington state laws, collectively prohibit discrimination based on the following protected characteristics, whether actual or perceived: race, color, creed, religion, national origin (including shared ancestry), citizenship, sex, pregnancy, age, marital status, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, genetic information, disability and veteran status.

If you experience discrimination, harassment, or sexual misconduct, you have the right to request supportive measures and access available resources, regardless of whether you wish to request a university investigation or alternative resolution process. You also have the right to report the incident to the University or the police.

Making an online Civil Rights & Title IX report will connect you with a Civil Rights Case Manager who will help you understand available options and navigate resources. If you are seeking confidential support or are not yet sure if you want the University to know about your experience, you may prefer to reach out first to a University confidential resource.

Assistant Vice President for Civil Rights Compliance & Title IX Coordinator:

Valery Richardson | civilrights@uw.edu
